

At Kanopy, we're watching as the tragedy unfolds in Ukraine and in an effort to understand the significance of the invasion by Russian troops and the chain of events that preceded it, we've turned to our own library to learn more. To provide further context on Ukraine and its tense history with Russia, we've carefully curated a collection of documentary and narrative films focused specifically on this country and region.

CONFLICT IN UKRAINE

A collection of films
focused on current events

To help educate your institution further, feel free to share the collection of informative films we've curated at go.kanopy.com/ukraine with faculty, staff, and students. Additionally, we're providing artwork from two of the titles within the collection for your use in social media or email newsletters.

The collection of over 25 films includes:

Breaking Point: The War for Democracy in Ukraine (2016)

This documentary looks at people transformed by a democratic revolution, who give up their normal lives to fight a Russian invasion, in a war which has killed 10,000 and displaced 1.9 million Ukrainians.

The Babushkas of Chernobyl (2015)

Journey into the Chernobyl Exclusion Zone several decades after the world's worst nuclear disaster in April 1986. The tightly regulated 1,000 square mile Dead Zone remains one of the most radioactively contaminated places on Earth, but is inhabited by a spirited group of elderly women who scratch out an existence in this lethal landscape.

Download artwork

 We hope you will find this content useful in light of recent events.
Please reach out if you have any questions.